Greetings from the Seneschal

We have decided (since mundane life took over all this month) that we will leave the Poorman's stuff in our trailer for the winter and the Haire Affaire stuff in the storage shed and in the spring after Haire Affaire we will move everything over to the new storage shed. We kind of ran out of Summer before we got everything done. :) Mary will be talking to the people at Marathon Park about booking Haire Affaire. Tentative date is March 6 providing the site has nothing else booked. Our next sewing/giggle night will be November 18th around 6pm. This is a wonderful opportunity to giggle with your fellow SCA'dians and help each other with your latest projects! Depending on the weather, Rogan will fire up the forge as well. The address is 4321 80th St. So. From Marshfield, Take Hwy 13 into town. Turn right onto the Riverview Expressway. Go all the way through town and out to the Stop Sign. (You will pass several stoplights, just keep going straight) Turn Right onto County Trk U (80th St.) The house is on the left directly across from Conley's supper club. From Wausau, Take Hwy 51 South to the Plover exit. (Hwy B) Turn Right onto B. Continue straight onto Hwy 54. Follow 54 for about 20 miles. You will see signs for South Wood County Park and County Trunk U. Turn left onto Cty Trk U (80th St.) Continue on 80th for about 5 miles. The house is on the left directly across from Conley's supper club. Hope to see you then!!!

Cover Story:

St Catherine of Alexandria, whose day is celebrated November 25, was one of the most favored saints in the middle ages. This presumably contributed to the popularity of the name Catherine which has persisted to this day. Allegedly Catherine was a virgin martyr, who was born into a privileged family in late 3rd C Alexandria and converted to Christianity after she had a vision. She opposed the persecutions of Emperor Maximus. After her learned discourse converted many pagan philosophers and also Maximus' own wife, Catherine was condemned to death on a wheel of torture which broke when she touched it so she was eventually beheaded. Details of her life are scanty and she is considered apocrophal by some modern Catholics.

The image (from the national Gallery in the UK) was painted in the early 16th C. Note the style of her garb.

The Chronicler's Quill

Greetings onto the folk of the Shire of Falcon's Keep,

It is really exciting that new types of gatherings are starting to happen in the Keep! As mentioned in the letter from the Seneschal, Arianna and Rogan are hosting an approximately monthly sewing giggle night, scheduled for November 18. Jen is hosting a diverse A&S gathering at her home as well. It is at 7pm every other Wednesday including Oct 28, Nov 11, (skip Thanksgiving week), December 9, (skip Christmas week). Jen's address is 508 E 6th in Marshfield.

Now that A&S is coming alive in the Keep, there should be more material for the Mewsletter. If you are bored with the same old articles, please note that YOU CAN BE AN AUTHOR. If you went to an event others may have missed, or tried a new project in A&S why not write it up for the Mewsletter? The same goes for artwork—if you draw anything with a medieval theme, I would love to have it for the Mewsletter.

New regulations do require that I treat all contributors as serious artists who wish to protect their work, so you will need to sign a release for me to publish anything you submit. The form is on the website below:

<http://northshield.org/Officers/Display.aspx?ID=3>

Look under forms, permission to publish.

If you notice any discrepancies in the minutes, please let me or Mary know. They have been reconstructed after they were lost due to Mary having major computer problems. Many thanks to Mary for her heroic job in getting the minutes to me at all.

Anachronists Book Review:

Lady Eve of Lynn

Guess What? I finally found a new work of fiction that pertains to our time period. Other than the Historical Romances there has been very little hitting the New Bookshelf this year.

This month's offering was found in the large Print section of my local library Martyr is an Elizabethan Thriller by Rory Clements. This is his first novel. It is the first in a planned series featuring John Shakespeare. Did the bard have an older brother? I will have to look that up. A very good read.

I was a little confused by the term pursuivants: being used to describe a group of mercenaries. I had to look the word up in my extra large dictionary, in order to find that it was in the third meaning of the word listed, "Officers of the court with power to execute warrants of search and arrest". I guess that you're never too old to learn or is it that elder moments are kicking in a little more often.

Another word used in Martyr that has many meanings is Mews. In my dictionary (The one that I need a magnifying glass to read, and a crane to lift.) The meanings are, 1 A cage for Hawks, 2 a place of concealment, 3 A stable yard, 4 an alleyway leading to a stable or garage. When I see this word, I wonder just what our first Muse of the Mewsletter had in mind when she chose the name for our shires newsletter. A lining for a bird cage maybe!!

Or was it meant to lead us to Think as well as live the Dream.

Becoming your persona...

I had told countless mundanes, “No it is not a costume, it’s my garb”, before I really began to understand what that means. If I chose to dress up as Elizabeth I, I would only try to look like the famed Virgin Queen, but when I don Ealasaid’s garb, my goal is to become Ealasaid, a 10th century Scotswoman married to a Norseman. To do this, I need to learn as much as I can about what things she had available to her and what she did with them. What fabrics did she have and how did she cut the fabric? If I really want to be Ealasaid, I don’t try to figure out how I can hide mundane longjohns under my dress on a cold day nor do I want to wear a Kinsale cloak (they may be period in the sense of SCA time but they come from Ireland at a time centuries after Ealasaid). Instead I want to figure out what Ealasaid would have done to keep warm—multiple layers?, a Scots style plaid?, a Norse square cloak? If I run out of food at a camping event, even in the mundane grocery store, I try to find things Ealasaid would recognize such a bread, apples, cheese, and grain for porridge. If I’m thinking of learning something new, I might try spinning or soapstone carving rather than bobbin lace or oil painting. The latter are period for some personnas, but not right for Ealasaid. One does not do this all at once. A great thing about the SCA is that you can try out different times and places before settling upon a persona. You do not have to be perfect. You can hide your wristwatch under your sleeve, but if you do try getting rid of it and relying on the heralds or the angle of the sun to let you know when it is time for dinner, you will begin to feel more like your persona. OK, I admit I still cheat in some ways. I have no choice but to drive to get to events and even when there, I am not ready to completely give up cold diet coke, toothbrushes or showers, but every time I try something like drinking warm ale, cleaning my teeth with a twig, or bathing in a stream for that instant I can become Ealasaid. I try to do a few more things like that every year. I challenge you to do the same.

SCA Name: Mistress Ealasaid NicPhearsoninn

Modern Name: Elspeth McPherson Christianson

Years in SCA: 35 years

Awards Earned: Order of the Laurel, Order of the Pelican, Purple Fret (from Mid Realm), Order of Willow (from Mid Realm), Award of Arms.

Offices Held: In Falcon's Keep: Chronicler, M.O.A.S; Mid Realm: Chronicler and Chirurgeon.

Fighting/A&S Preference: She likes Viking fiber arts, garb making, and period cooking.

How you found out about the SCA: She wanted to meet people outside of her medical field job. Elspeth then decided to join a renaissance dance class and to go to the demo to see how the dances looked in garb. She made some friends in the class, Liam and Deirdre, Baron and Baroness of Madrone (Seattle), who convinced her that she really could make her first garb in just a couple of weeks in time for the Feast of St Bunstable. In the end, Elspeth failed in her attempt to meet people outside of medicine as Liam and Deirdre were both in medical fields as well, but she found something much better, the SCA.

What you like about the SCA: Mistress Ealasaid likes the chance to experience what it would be like to be in another time and place.
